Re-imagining the Voice of the Defendant at the Old Bailey

Tim Hitchcock

Mr. Dowers. The coat has been lost near four months; how long have you did you miss them? - About eight o'clock had it before that?—About fix weeks.

2 The coat is worn fince, I suppose? -Yes, very much; I can fwear positively to the coat, it is a very remarkable coat.

Court. Was the box left open or unlocked; it is a box that the lid falls down on the top, and when I awaked in the morning, I found the lid had fallen had ferved her.

Prisoner. I leave it to my counsel. faid, he was a shoe-maker, and gave him a character.

GUILTY.

Of stealing the coat only, and not of breaking.

Transported for seven years.

Tried by the second Middlesex Jury before Mr. RECORDER.

514. ELIZABETH HUTCHINS was indicted for burglariously breaking and entering the dwelling house of George Lochtie, on the 16th of August, about the hour of ten in the night, and burglariously stealing therein, a woman's value 28. a black quitted ftuff petticoat, that. value 1s. the goods of George Lochtie.

GEORGE LOCHTIE fworn.

I live at St. Paul's, Shadwell; my house was not broke open. On the 16th of August, I lost a red cloak, a pair of flays and petticoat, out of my window, bar.

2. What time on Monday morning when I generally open; the cloak was pawned at Joseph Willington's, he is

2. Have you feen any thing besides vour cloak?-No, because if I had, I should know them. The prisoner was locked?—I had left it locked. I found it a customer to my shop, I see her in the shop, about ten o'clock at night, my wife served her, I see her, she told me she

D. Was not your house broke at all? -There was a small iron bolt taken out The priloner called two witnesses, who of the inside of the shutters, to get at this property, but that was infide the house, that could not have been done from > Prisoner. You served me this cap that I have got on my head, about twelve o'clock, and there was no foul in the shop but yourself.

JOSEPH WILLINGTON fworn.

I am a pawnbroker; I produce a red coloured cloak; I got it of the prisoner at the bar, on the 16th of August, Saturday, about ten at night, I gave her a ticket, she was a customer to our shop, fhe faid it belonged to herfelf; it was pawned in her own name, Elizabeth Hutchins.

Prosecutor. It is my cloak, I know it red cloth cloak, value 5s. a pair of stays, by this stain, I can swear to it by Prisoner. I went to the butcher's the the corner of Farthing-fields, to buy a piece of meat for me and my child, and a good woman asked me if I would go of an errand for her? it was to pawn that thing for her: I asked her what it was? fhe faid it was this cloak, and I willingly late at night, being Saturday; and being did it for the fake of a few halfpence, fays Saturday I did not mis them, Monday she, do you know that pawnbroker, and morning I midled these things, and went does he know you? yes, says I, then and found the cloak pawned, on Satur- fays she, put it in your own name as long day evening, by the prisoner at the as I have the duplicate it will be no object; I went and asked the pawnbroker half a

www.oldbaileyonline.org

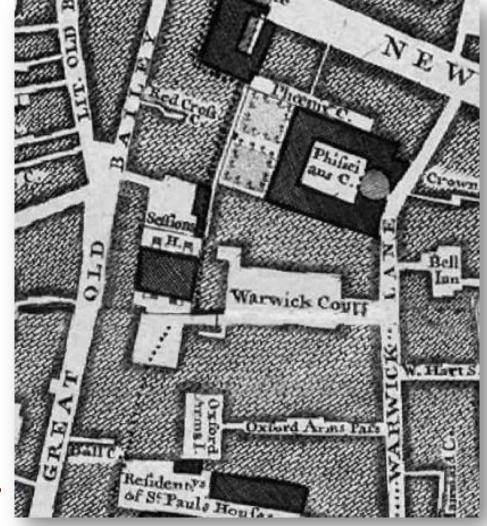

19 25 Elig " Hutchins.

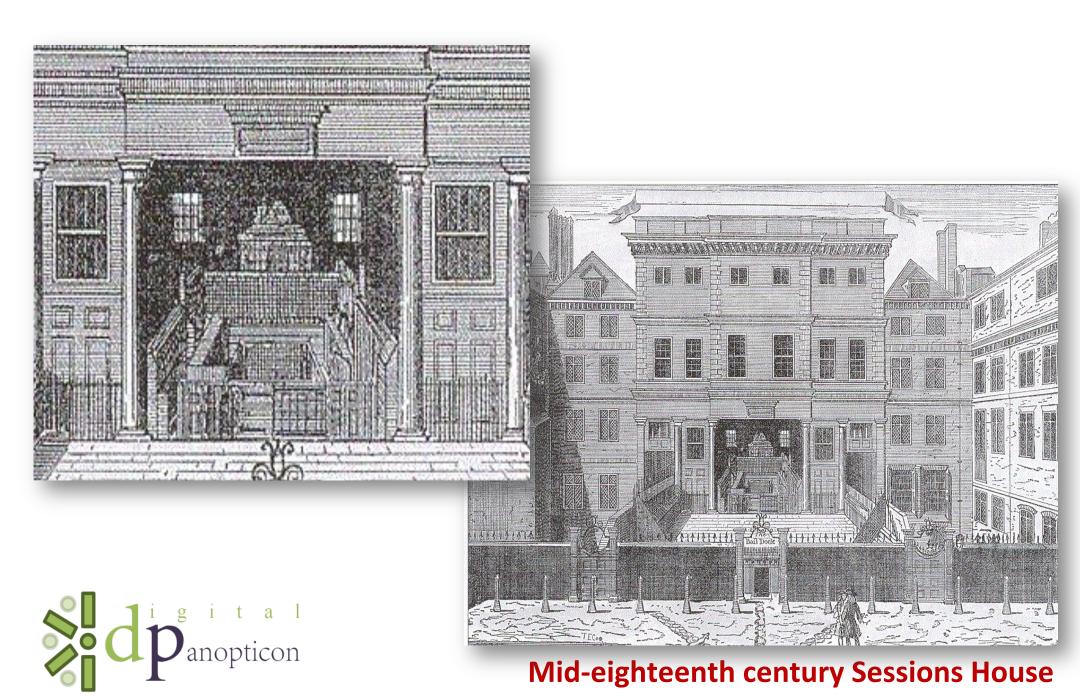

35.44 geg eges Black hair dark Complexion . Markey Maries Comman c.1720, Richard Blome, detail from 'Farrington Ward Without'.

c.1746, John Rocque, detail from his 'Map of London'

Percentage of trials resulting in a 'guilty' verdict. Nb. Between October 1792 and December 1793 trials resulting in an acquittal on all charges were excluded from the Proceedings. This exclusion has a marked and misleading impact on the moving average between 1777 and 1808; the apparently similar spike in convictions in 1706 results from a whole issue of the Proceedings being given over to a single trial, which was judged 'guilty'. See 17061206.

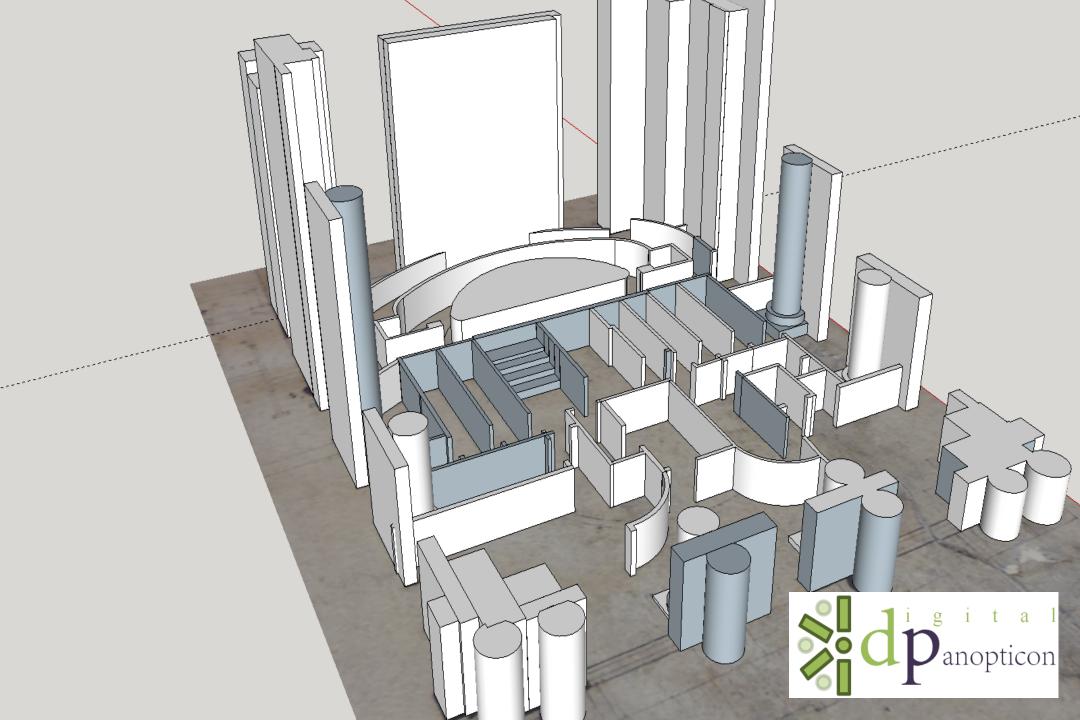

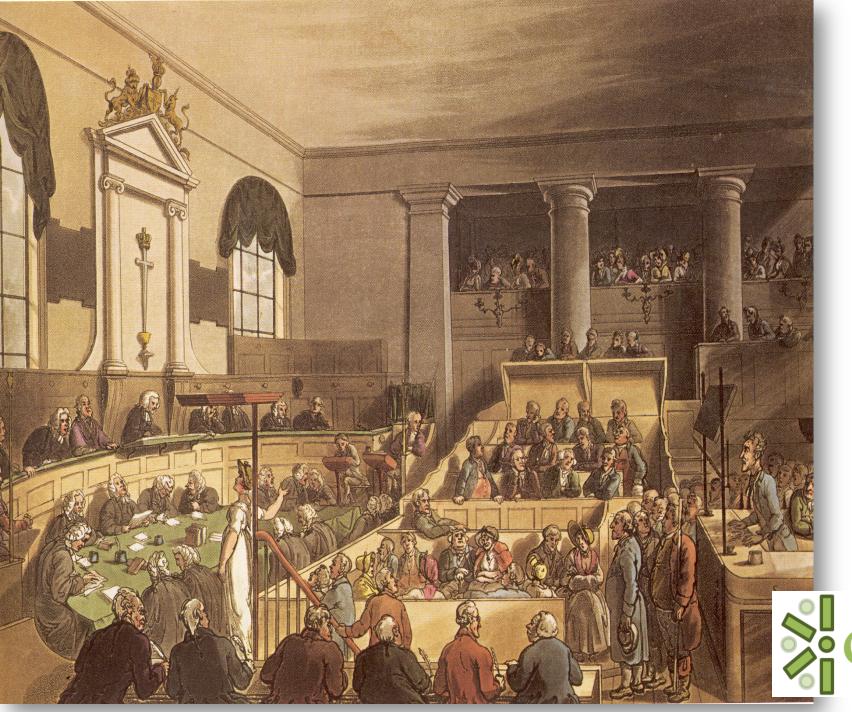

Main Floor, 1808

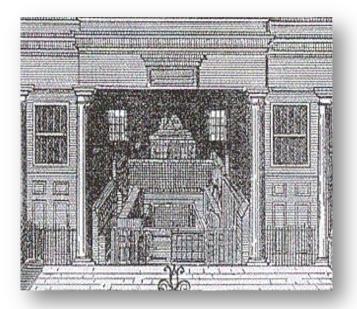

Rowlandson, 1808

dp anopticon

c. 1750

Before 1737

c. 1808 c.1850